

Guidelines for SVS 2017 Research Grant Application

The aim of the SVS research grant is to fund novel, applied and evidence-based science of relevance to the society's aim of promoting the prevention of disease and the welfare of sheep by providing a forum for discussion, distribution of research results and provision of advice on veterinary matters relating to sheep.

Applications will be graded by the committee on the following criteria:

- Scientific quality including study design (sample selection and size), conduct and analysis
- Topics that are widely applicable to the UK sheep industry will be considered
- Subject areas that are novel and have not been extensively researched.
- The society is especially keen to fund practitioners to participate in research but they will fund non-practitioners too
- If study is part of a wider research project, PhD studentship, post-doctoral research or other study that has received funding from other applications this must be clearly stated on the application form. Receipt of external funding does not necessarily mean that the grant will not be funded but priority will be given to those not receiving external funding and based on scientific and practical merit.

Funding conditions

- The grant is only open to anyone, but preference may be shown to full or associate members of the Sheep Veterinary Society
- The grant will cover reasonable travel expenses that are necessary as part of the research project but will not pay for staff costs including consultancy or practice day-rate fees to conduct the research
- Payment will be provided following submission of receipts and/or invoices to the society treasurer
- Applicants will be expected to provide a full report of the research findings which will be published on the society website (www.sheepvetsoc.org.uk) and to present their work at a future SVS meeting
